GEOG 1101
INTRODUCTION TO HUMAN GEOGRAPHY

Geography is the study of the difference between places. In Human Geography, the focus is on places created by people. In particular, how certain human elements integrate with the biophysical environment to create unique locations (i.e., places). Topics will include culture, population, politics, industry, agriculture, and more. If you have a fascination with the world around you, this is the course for you.