B.A. in Interdisciplinary Studies—Upper-Division Requirements—(60 hours)

Students will be required to submit a well-reasoned plan of study to their academic advisors prior to the beginning of their junior year. As a part of this plan, students will articulate their intellectual interest or career objective that guides and justifies the selected course of study. As a part of their senior seminar, students will assess the extent to which their individual program and the skills and knowledge gained from the selected courses helped them achieve their personal and professional goals and will offer suggestions to strengthen the program for future majors.

Essential Areas (15 hours, with at least 6 hours above the 2000-level)
Humanities (3-6 hours of courses in literature, composition, music, theatre, and/or film)

Senior Capstone Course
INTS 4999: Interdisciplinary Studies Seminar	3
Total Credits

Senior Capstone Course (INTS 4999: Interdisciplinary Studies Seminar, 3 hours) Students will demonstrate mastery of the student learning outcomes as a part of this capstone course through the completion of a senior paper, a senior research project, or an electronic portfolio under the direction of a Dalton State faculty member. Students will be expected to give an oral presentation of their work.

The total number of hours required for the baccalaureate in interdisciplinary studies is 121, with at least 39 hours of upper-division course work overall. Hours completed in one area cannot be counted toward another area. For example, hours taken to satisfy Essential Areas cannot also be used toward the Required Minor.
