Media Policy serves as a deterrent to non-collegiate behavior negatively effecting the SGA and as a reminder on proper ethical guidelines when posting on Social Media platforms.

1. Basic Principles

- a. Avoid writing, publishing, or posting anything that would embarrass, hinder action, or compromise your ability to perform the duties of your office
- b. Do not make false claims or representations about DSC programs or services, and do not speculate or guess if you do not know the information
- c. Assume that whilst online, your personal life and elected-official life will unite online
- d. Even if you use privacy tools to protect your identity, assume that anything and everything you write, exchange, receive, publish, or post on a social media site is public for all to see
- e. Understand that joining a particular group on one side of a debate can be perceived as your participation and acceptance of that group's activities
- f. You are personally responsible for any and all content that you may publish on the internet
- g. When speaking or writing on matters that pertain to the SGA, do so in first person. While on SGA, your opinion is that of the SGA. Any retraction from the opinion or the values of the SGA, may be used against you as grounds for impeachment. Where appropriate, share content directly from DSC's social media pages rather than duplicating it
  - i. State that it's your personal opinion when you are posting online and do not include your position or the name of the organization in your post. Be sure that you are not acting as a representation of DSC and/or SGA
- h. Always respect your audience whether they be students, community members, alumni, professors, or faculty and staff.
  - i. Any use of ethnic slurs, personal insults, obscenity, or engaging in conduct not conducive with the values and ethics of the SGA may be grounds for immediate impeachment
